

SUSTAINABILITY GOVERNANCE IN THE ANTHROPOCENE: A SYMPOSIUM

How can we manage major challenges like climate change, food security, and biodiversity loss in the face of accelerating human pressure, increasing complexity, and persistent inequality? Join us for a day-long symposium featuring globally renowned social scientists discussing how different governance systems are experimenting, learning, failing and succeeding at managing resources under stress.

DR. JENNIFER CLAPP

Canada Research Chair & Professor, School of Environment, Resources and Sustainability, University of Waterloo, Canada on Governance of Food Systems

DR. RATANA CHUENPAGDEE

Professor, Department of Geography, Memorial University of Newfoundland, Canada on Governance of Fisheries

DR. MEREDITH GORE

Dr. Meredith Gore, Associate Professor, Department of Geographical Sciences, University of Maryland College Park on Governance of Wildlife

DATE: TUESDAY, MAY 7TH

TIME: 8:30-5PM

LOCATION: COOK STUDENT CENTER

Registration and Program Information at:

go.rutgers.edu/CSAGA